Despre mine

I am passionate about psychology and study it as a science, which helps me better understand people and interact effectively with clients. I am training in the specialty of Business Planning and Administration, which allows me to develop strategic thinking, analysis, and management skills. This combination of knowledge in psychology and business makes me a unique specialist capable of not only understanding client needs but also developing effective solutions to meet them.

I am proficient in effective verbal and written communication, possess active listening and empathy skills, and can quickly find solutions thanks to analytical thinking and attention to details. I am customer-oriented, patient, and capable of managing expectations, easily collaborate in a team, flexible and adaptable, and maintain a positive attitude. I manage my time efficiently, handle multitasking and stress well, and my knowledge of psychology helps me better understand and support clients. Additionally, I possess the ability to think strategically and develop business plans.

My commitment to continuous development and learning in psychology and business makes me a valuable employee, ready to benefit the company and its clients.
